

Housing Resource Guide

Camarillo has all aspects of a suburban rural community with a small-town quality. There is a variety of housing options, which include traditional single-family neighborhoods, town homes, cluster developments, apartments, mixed-use, and several large retirement communities, as well as homes in rural and country-club settings.

Ownership — Existing Affordable Housing (see map on pg. 2)

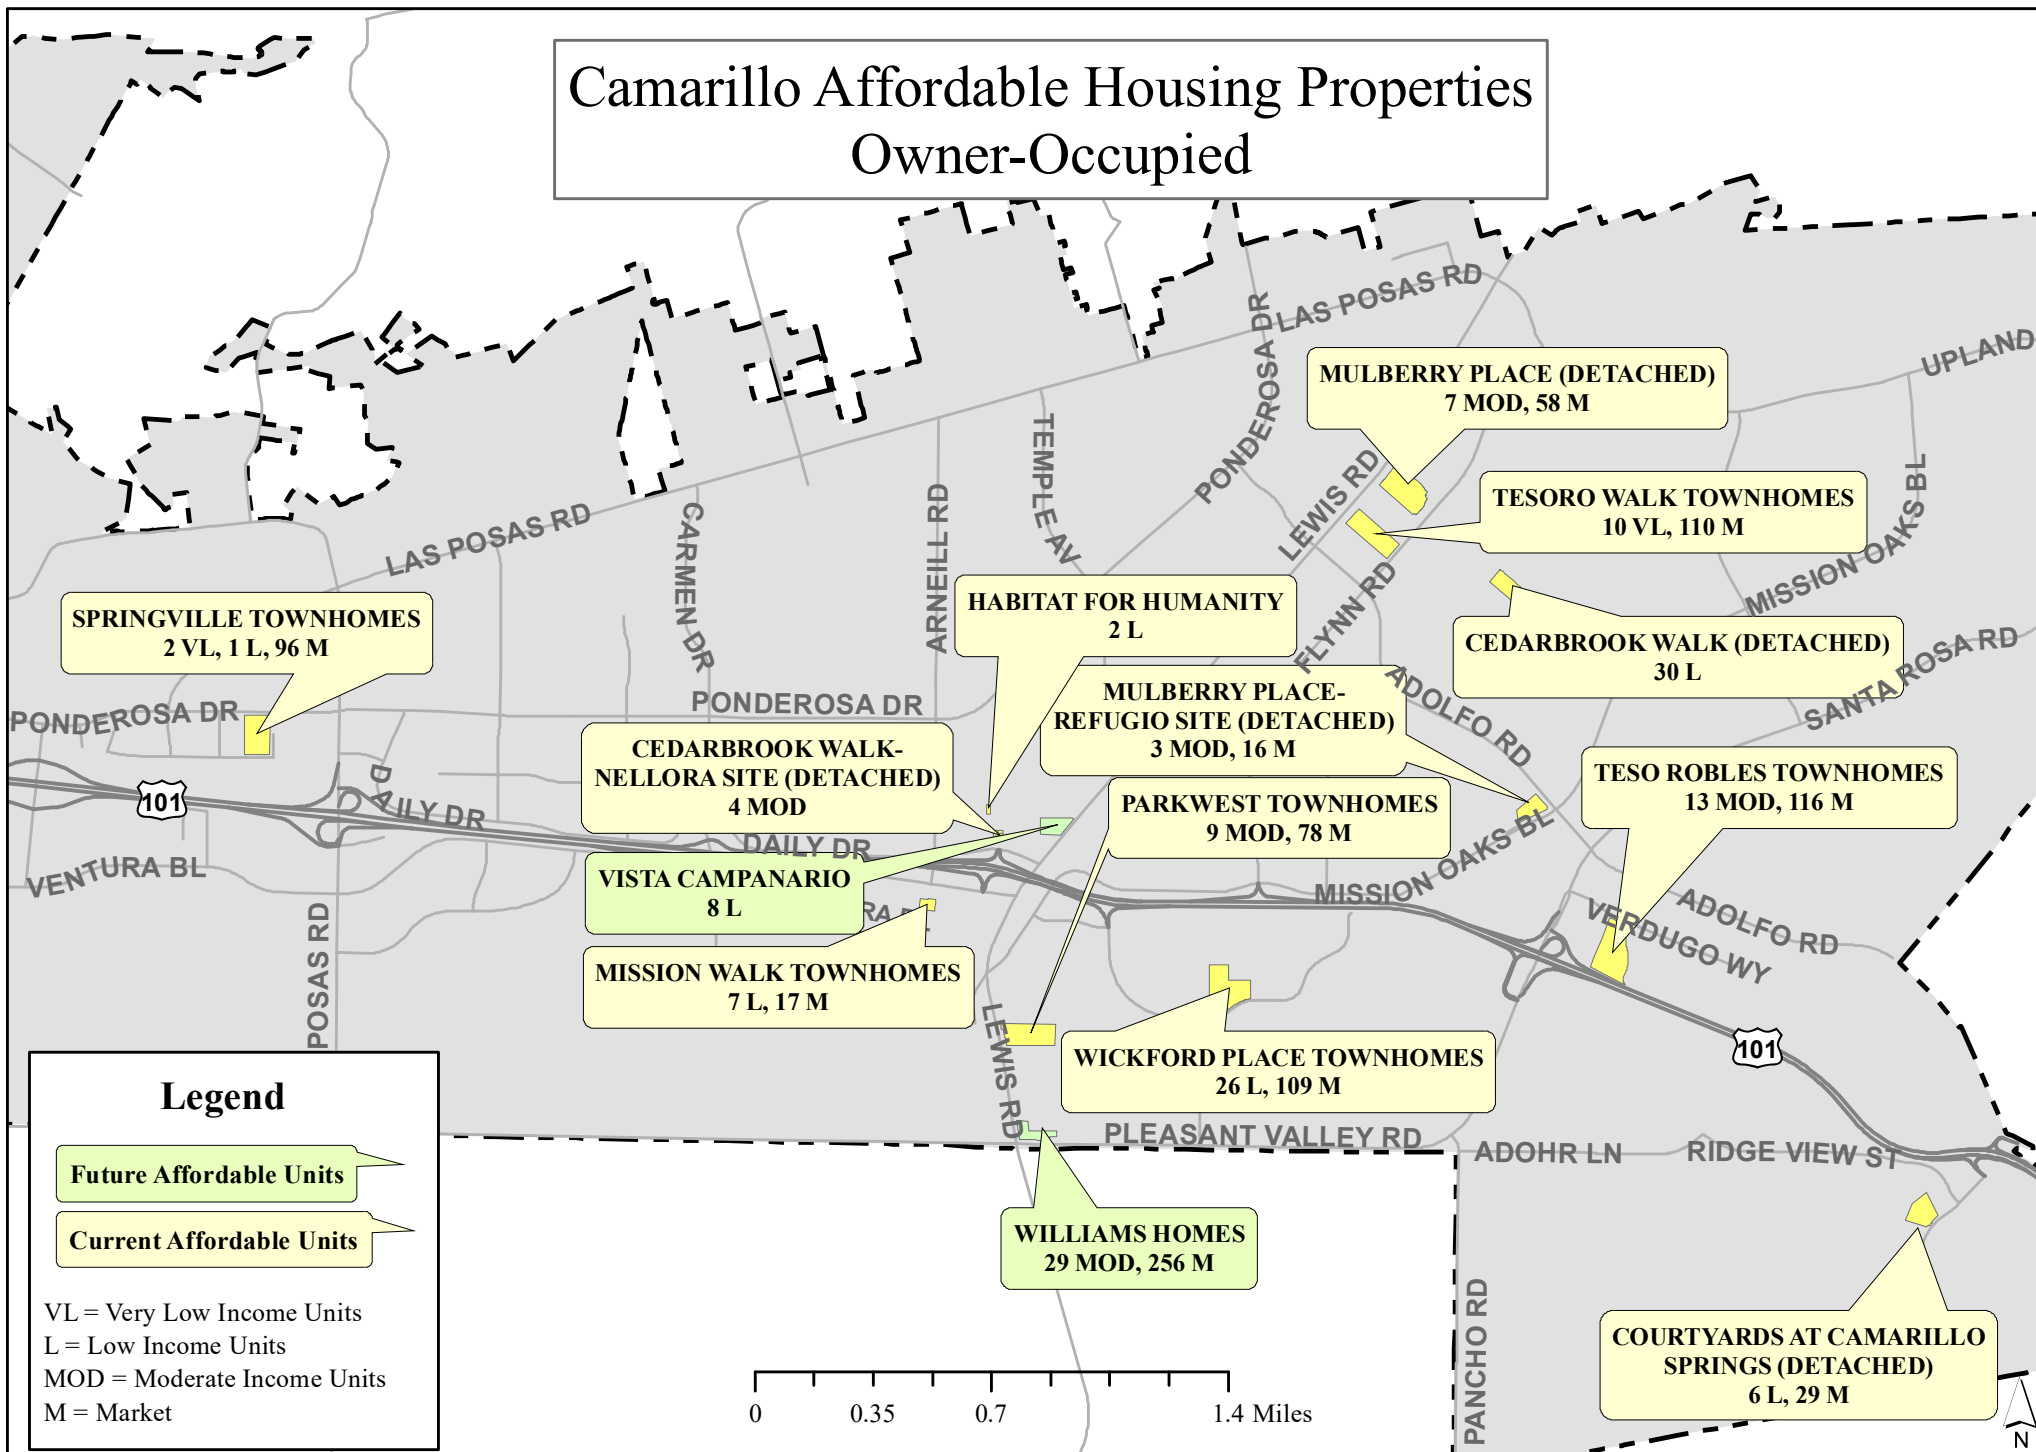

The resale restrictions of affordable homes within the subdivision listed below remain in place for 30–55 years, depending on the development. The City maintains an interested parties list for purchasing a home the City is reselling (approximately 1-2 a year). To be added to the list, please visit the website here. City of Camarillo Affordable Housing Preservation Program and Workforce Housing Downpayment Assistance Loan Program

The Affordable Housing Preservation Program is a new program that the City uses to preserve some of the existing affordable units from converting to market-rate. The affordable units are restricted by Affordable Housing Agreement covenants that have been recorded on the property title of each unit.

The covenants for many of the units will begin to expire in upcoming years, thereby potentially reducing the availability of deed-restricted affordable housing units in Camarillo.

This program allows the City to exercise its first option to purchase an affordable unit if and when it becomes available for sale by current owner(s). If the City purchases the affordable unit, it will update the Affordable Housing Agreement covenants to extend the term and to comply with the City's current housing policies. The City will then resell the unit to an eligible buyer identified from the City's interested parties list. The updated covenants will extend the term to 55 years, resetting with each future transfer so that the unit will likely remain affordable in perpetuity. The City can only purchase a unit if and when a current owner is ready to sell their affordable home. The turn-over of affordable units is limited, which may be zero to a few units per year.

The purpose of the Camarillo Workforce Housing DAP is to assist eligible first-time homebuyers with the down payment and closing costs of the purchase of a home. This reduces the amount of the loan needed from the primary mortgage lender and reduces the monthly cost of housing to the household. For more information and to apply, please see the following link: <https://vccdc.org/lending>

Please contact Community Development Department at (805) 388-5360 for more information on these programs.
