he caught her in his arms. "I'll do anything to please you."

Jane, struggling angrily, stood pinned. He laughed immoderately at her efforts to tear herself away. She rained blows on him with her fists. "Let me go!" she panted. "I hate you."

Still laughing, he tried to talk down her anger. She got away from him. "Hate me as much as you like, Janie, but I'm going to have you. I'll kill any man that tries to take you away from me," he continued coolly. "I don't care a damn who he is—just remember that, girlie. And I'd kill you, too, if you married another man."

Panting, and furious with anger and fear, she got into her hand the riding whip dangling from her wrist and lashed him across the face and head.

As she dashed away, McCrossen drew paper and tobacco from his pocket, rolled a cigarette, and licking the paper's edge as he looked after Jane riding toward Denison's ranch, struck a match, lighted up, and started for the bunkhouse.

Jane, her heart beating tumultuously, galloped swiftly along the trail.

ARE YOU NERVOUS?

Here is a way to help calm quivering nerves

Do you feel so nervous that you want to scream? Are there times when you are cross and irritable . . . times when you could throw up your hands in despair?

If your nerves are on edge, try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It helps calm your quivering nerves and should give you the strength and energy to face life with a smile.

When your worries and cares become too much for you and you want to run away from it all . . . take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. Many women have had nerves as jangled as yours, but they have been able to build up their pep and energy and get back to normal with the aid of LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

When your mother and your grandmother used to become nervous, irritable and rundown they depended upon this famous old medicine to pep them up again . . . to help their nerves . . . to help give them a cheerful disposition.

SHE LOST 20 POUNDS OF FAT

Feel full of pep and possess the slender form you crave—you can't if you listen to gossipers.

To take off excess fat go light on fatty meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets—eat more fruit and vegetables and take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning to eliminate excess waste.

Mrs. Elma Verille of Havre de Grace, Md., writes: "I took off 20 lbs.—my clothes fit me fine now!"

No drastic cathartics—no constipation—but blissful daily bowel action when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen.

Plowed Up Nine Rattle Snakes

Earl Stephens, son-in-law of Ed Brooks of Plattsville, who lives one mile north of Holt, plowed up nine rattlesnakes recently while plowing on the Barr farm near Holt. They were all old snakes and had from eight to twelve rattles,--Clinton County Co. Democrat.

Visited In St. Joseph

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Carey and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Simmons called on Ben Laffoon in St. Joseph, Mo., Sunday. They report him looking and feeling fine, and always glad to see his friends. Mr. Laffoon, who is now 64 years old, was 37 when he went to St. Joseph.

They also called at the home of Mrs. J. R. Eastin, Mrs. John Eisler, and Mrs. Mays, formerly Irene Dykes, but they were not at home.

Brother in Hospital

Mrs. Claude McBrayer has received word that her brother, W. J. Kuhnert, of Denver, Col. is in the hospital with the bones in his feet and legs crushed, and a gash on his head, caused when he was knocked off the engine while a train was switching. Mr. Kuhnert is a brakeman on the Union Pacific railroad.

Snowballs

Mr. Bowman Barr brought a beautiful Snowball blossom to the Courier office this week, that he picked from a bush in his yard. The bush presents a beautiful sight in full bloom this time of year.

Mulberries in October

Mr. Robert Ferguson brought a small twig from a mulberry tree on the Roy Humphrey property that had several berries almost mature. He stated that many berries on the tree were quite red now and would ripen if frost stays off a few more days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore of Maryville spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Klepper.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School Honor Roll

Freshmen:- Elizabeth Thompson, Geraldine Denney, Delois Nicholson.

Sophomores:- Mary Jane Albright, Kathryn Chaney, Lewis Francis, Sam Clay Chapman, Frances Harmon, Marjorie Sue Massey.

Juniors:- Frieda Gifford, Wanda Faye Duncan.

Seniors:- Alta Thomas, Lois Munkirs.

The Basket Ball team played Grayson Friday night. The girls played Volley Ball. Both teams were beat. Floyd Kelly wrestled Billy Greason of Holt at Holt Saturday night at the Product show. It was a draw.

The Sophomores went to the Royal Tuesday in a group—the agriculture class. Several of the folks took cars. Kearney plays Holt Friday night at Holt.

Juniors Virginia Crossett

Alma Boggess was absent from school Monday.

The Sophomores favored us with a good program Monday afternoon.

Several from our class attended the Holt Product show Friday and Saturday.

The cooking class has been studying "Breakfast." Division 1 served Division 2 and two of the high school teachers Friday. Division 2 served Division 1 and the other high school teachers Monday.

Sophomores Kathryn Chaney

The girls' volleyball team was defeated by Grayson Friday night. We haven't found out what the score was yet, and some of us don't have any desire to find out.

The Sophomores went to the American Royal Tuesday. We enjoyed an afternoon performance at the Royal, and an evening show at a theatre downtown. We certainly appreciate the kindness of the ones who furnished our transportation. They were: Mr. Massey, Mr. Chapman, Mrs. Hall, Horace Denny and Mr. Barton. I'm sure that the Sophomores were benefitted in many ways during the day.

Our grade cards were given today (Wednesday) at noon. We wonder why so many pupils looked so downhearted.

The Sophomores are glad to have Max Holloway back in class. Ella Faye Nicholson entered the fall Festival at Holt and won several prizes.

Ask Madelyn Hall why she was late for school Wednesday in class.

A Basket-Ball game is scheduled with Holt this Friday night. Here's hoping you win, boys!

Freshman Geraldine Denny

Monday the Freshmen had a class meeting and elected the following officers were elected: Pres., Emma Elizabeth Thompson; Vice Pres., Al

Teacher Retirement in Missouri

The teacher retirement fund proposal, which has just been indorsed by the Kansas City board of education, will appear on the Missouri constitutional ballot in the November election.
It is an enabling act, advanced by initiative petitions and designed to remove a restriction in the Missouri constitution of 1875 which prevents legislative action that would set up a teacher retirement system for the entire state. The plan adopted in detail, therefore, would be determined by the legislature.This same proposal was submitted to Missouri voters in the congressional election two years ago. It lost then by a slight majority, due to an adverse vote in some of the rural districts. The school people and others who are urging the amendment again say that the state-wide retirement plan at which it aims would be financed largely if not wholly by the teachers themselves through annual percentage contributions from their salaries. It is offered for as an efficiency and economy program, since it would permit the retirement of teachers of advanced age and at maximum salaries and their replacement by young and better trained teachers who would be paid less.In some form, teacher retirement plans have been adopted by forty-one of the states. In addition to Missouri, the states without any such system are Arkansas, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Mississippi. A Majority of the plans adopted elsewhere provide for use of moderate amounts of state or public funds to supplement the payments made by the teachers themselves. In some instances there are no provisions of this nature, the teacher contributions supplying the entire amounts. Should the proposed amendment be adopted in Missouri, it would be the duty of the legislature to decide which of the methods should be enacted into law.This is a question that concerns alike the teachers and the people who support and use the schools of Missouri. Despite the fact that it has been advanced previously and has been widely discussed, it ought to be given the further careful attention that it deserves. — Kansas City Star.As soon as a man has learned how to Men don't like "quiet" girls. Men go to parties to enjoy themselves. They want girls along who are full of pep.LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COM-POUND helps give you pep and energy. For over sixty years girls and women have been taking this famous old medicine to pep them up... to help give them strength, energy,

Chevrolet Pleased With Results From Newspaper Advertising

Chevrolet's achievement of all-time sales records in 1936, under a policy which made newspaper's the front line of the company's advertising offensive, has dictated continuance of that policy in 1937, and especially in the announcement of the forthcoming new models. This statement by C. P. Fiskien, advertising manager, was a feature of an all-day party which Chevrolet held for 300 newspapermen this week.

"The 1937 models are the finest Chevrolet has ever built," said Mr. Fiskien. "And the advertising behind them measures up to the product itself. Last year and for several years back, we have relied primarily upon newspaper space to get our message across to the public. In light of the amazing sales achievements of 1936, it is hardly necessary to justify to you our intention of adhering to that policy this year. The newspaper will be the foundation of our advertising effort."

GUNLOCK RANCH

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tassel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tassel, arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Doctor Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot Ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him with Harry Boland, saloonkeeper and crony of McCrossen. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. They are then asked to propose their own stunts. McCrossen, winning the toss, picks up a handkerchief from the ground, riding full speed, facing backward. Denison easily follows suit. Now it is his turn. He drops a cigarette carelessly, and it is proposed that he try to pick it up riding full tilt.

CHAPTER II.—Racing down the track, Denison picks up the cigarette. Boland and the Gunlock ranch followers protest to Bill Pardaloe, ex-sheriff and one of the judges, but the verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entranced by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tassel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rides to pick it up, a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Doctor Carpy. The young stranger returns the bracelet to Jane.

CHAPTER III.—Back on Gunlock ranch after two years in Chicago, because of her father's illness, Jane gets lost riding in the hills and meets Denison, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, he speaks bitterly of Van Tassel. She tells McCrossen who brought her home and he denounces Denison as a cattle thief. Later she asks Doctor Carpy why her father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tassel's ruthless and unscrupulous character.

CHAPTER IV.—Visiting her father in the hospital, Jane is warned to be wary of McCrossen's honesty, but her father urges her to be nice to him. Later McCrossen tries to woo her, but is sharply rebuffed. Once again Jane loses her way in the hills and meets Denison. On impulse she gives him her bracelet for guiding her home. Their interest in each other growing, she reveals her identity to him.

CHAPTER V.—Jane is distressed to learn from Carpy that her father had wronged Denison. The Texan had worked at Gunlock as foreman and been promised a share in the profits. When he quit, Van Tassel renegeed. In reprisal Denison has been running cattle off Gunlock ranch. Shamed and humiliated, Jane avoids Denison, but longs to see him. When, at length they meet, he confesses his love.

CHAPTER VI.—Forest fires sweep the area, endangering the ranches. Jane sends cowhands to the ranches to aid Denison. When McCrossen refuses to help, she discharges him. In the firefighting, "Panama," a preacher who had once been a confidence man, meets a heroic death.

CHAPTER VII.—Coming to Denison's ranch, Jane and Bill find her father, who has been summoned from the hospital by McCrossen. Van Tassel storms at them and forbids Jane to see Denison again. Back at Gunlock ranch, he reinstates McCrossen as foreman and urges Jane to marry him. She refuses. Riding into town, Jane learns that Denison is in the hospital blinded from fighting a malicious fire which destroyed his ranch house.

CHAPTER IX

"Where is he, Sister?"
"His room is on the second floor—218. Shall I show you the way?"
"If you please, Sister. I learned only a moment ago that he was here. I've heard of this dreadful ranch-house fire only this minute. Did he tell you how it happened, Sister?"
"He has hardly spoken since they brought him in. But Mr. Scott said it was getting out of the burning ranch house."

house."

"How could that have happened? His eyes were scorched in saving me, Sister, from getting burned to death on Gunlock Knob."

"Oh, my dear."

"You don't know what terrible fires we've been having down our way."

"They've been terrible everywhere this fall."

"Do you think there is any chance to save his sight? Oh, Sister, can you imagine how I feel?"

"Dear heart, I do know how you feel. Of course I don't know a thing about the case, except that Dr. Carpy has given very strict orders about his care." She was too considerate to tell how worried she knew Carpy to be. "Of course his room is dark. And his eyes are bandaged. We like Mr. Denison so much—he's always been so kind to us with nice gifts. This is his room."

The nurse laid her hand on the knob of the door. "Shall I go in with you?"

"Do, Sister," said Jane. Sister opened the door. "Good-morning, Mr. Denison."

"Good-morning, Sister." Jane, walking in on tiptoe behind her guide, heard his answer.

"Who's that with you, Sister?" Jane had stepped as lightly as possible; but his ears had detected her footsteps.

"I've brought you a visitor. I hope you're not cross," she added, bantering.

"Who is visiting me?" he asked. Jane had been gradually drawing closer to him. "Bill?"

He started violently. For an instant he was silent as if listening for more. Then he responded, low and strangely.

"Jane?"

"Yes, Bill."

In the dark, her hand touched his arm. He caught both her hands, crushing them within his own, and drew one and the other hungrily to his lips.

"Sister," he said, composed, yet eager, "can you find a chair, in the dark, for Miss Van Tassel?"

With the nurse gliding out of the room, Jane's hands crept over his shoulders, around his neck, and as his arms enfolded her, their lips met to give and to receive that for which words were not needed.

"I didn't want you to hear that I was in trouble till we knew more about it. How did you find out I was here, Jane?"

"Jake Spotts, Bill. I never dreamed of such a thing," she said tremulously. "He told me the ranch house was burned last night. Oh, Bill!"

"I think maybe my eyes will be all right in a couple of days. Ben Page has been working for me for a while. He got hold of Bob Scott to bring me in to see Doc Carpy—and the doctor sent me here."

He felt her warm tears against his cheek. He kissed them away from her eyes. "Don't cry! There's nothing to cry over. I'll be all right when my eyes get better. Doctor says that won't be long. I wish you hadn't heard of it."

"I wish you'd never heard of me, Bill. To think of it, that I should have been the cause of starting all this trouble. Oh, why couldn't I have stayed home that dreadful day instead of riding into danger? I'll never, never forgive myself. And I'm ashamed to say it, Bill, but the real reason I rode up there was because I was just hungry for a sight of you—that was the real reason, Bill."

Denison only laughed. "Don't think you're the only one that was hungry for a sight. If I hadn't been scouting around the Knob trail where I knew you liked so much to ride, I'd never have caught sight of you. What then? Why, Jane, if you were burning in a fire, why shouldn't I jump in after you? What would be left for me?"

"Do your eyes hurt terribly, Bill?"

"Not when you're here, Jane."

"Oh, I know better. I know they do. And I can do nothing to help!"

He made light of her worry. There were more furtive tears, more earnest prayers, more submission from Jane. More happy laughs, more ardent embraces, more carefree cheer from Denison.

"Why, Bill," she protested at length, "one would think there was nothing the matter with you. And I am frightened to death."

"I was frightened to death myself till you came. It's not much fun sitting alone here in the dark. What frightens me most is the thought that if the worst should come, I'd lose you."

"You can never lose me, Bill. Remember that."

"Yes, but a blind man!" he exclaimed desperately. "Jane, I never could ask you to marry me blind—"

"There's only one way to keep me from marrying that good-for-nothing Bill Denison—that's to kill me and make me into dust—even then I'd tremble under his feet. I would—just to annoy him."

Her tongue was light and happy when she said good-by, but her heart was dread with fear. She rode straight to Carpy's office; luckily she found him in.

"Doctor! I'm so worried about Mr. Denison—"

"So am I."

"You know what happened?"

"Said he got trapped in the ranch-house fire."

"Yes, but it was trying to save my life when his eyes first got hurt."

"Never said a blamed word about that."

"I was up on Gunlock Knob, and he rode up to get me through the fire. Doctor," she asked, unsteadily, "can't you save his eyes?"

The old surgeon looked at her sympathetically. "You're asking a hard question, Jane? There are times when a doctor can't tell much better than an outsider how things are coming out. Bill's in bad shape; I must admit that. But I'm doing everything under the sun I can for him."

"Jane, my girl, give me another two weeks. If I thought anybody, anywhere, would do anything more than I'm doing, I'd put him on the cars tonight. It's time, Jane, time."

If Jane expected to get much information about the Denison fire at home, she was disappointed. When she reported it to her father, he was silent, professing still to feel outraged at her insubordination. McCrossen was more communicative, even sympathetic; but he knew little about the fire.

After a painful night, Jane rose early to go again into town. In the yard she encountered McCrossen.

"Ridin' out?" he asked.

"I am."

"T'll saddle up for you."

"Have the horses been fed?"

"Yep."

"T'll saddle up myself."

"Your father rode over to the pastures with Page this mornin'," volunteered McCrossen, walking alongside Jane. She made no answer; indeed, she rather quickened her pace; her companion stepping up his own.

"Your father left word I was to ride out with you, if you went off the ranch."

"I don't need anybody to ride out with me."

"I don't care a rap what the old man says. I'll ride out with you if you want me. If you don't, say so."

"I don't."

"O. K."

Jane undertook to mount.

"Look here, girlie!" said McCrossen suddenly. "Why don't you like me?"

Without further preface than a laugh
