How We've Helped

Managing debt

Leo lives on a fixed income, relying on disability assistance and small jobs to get by. When COVID-19 hit, he couldn't find any extra work and struggled with his bills. His FEC financial counselor helped him find financial assistance to pay his rent, and now he is working to reduce his debt and improve his credit score.

Increasing savings

Rose, a single mother of three, worked with her FEC financial counselor to improve her credit and save $5,000 for her daughter's college fund. She was excited to hear that her daughter was accepted to Baylor University and feels proud that she will be able to support her daughter's education.

Establishing credit

Stedman had a goal to turn his life around. After graduating from a Prison Entrepreneurship Program, he enrolled with the FEC to improve his finances. With our help, he was able to go from having no credit to achieving a 763 credit score within just months of his release. He is now employed and giving back to his community.
