

CYCLE OF GIVING

The community filled up at least 15 carts with food and 12 carts with warm clothing and toys in December. Add in 402 bicycles donated over the year through the Northglenn Bike Program, and many families had a merrier holiday season.

Volunteers gathered on Dec. 8 at the Maintenance & Operations Facility to clean up the donated bikes. On Dec. 13 they were given away at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, along with food, clothes and toys. Food banks at Crossroads Church, Northglenn Christian Church and Good Shepherd Presbyterian Church also received donations.

Gethsemane Lutheran School donated many new toys to the Police Department. Officers and volunteers wrapped those toys, along with other donated gifts. The police then dropped off the gifts to local youth as part of Christmas Crusade for Children.

If you want to volunteer through the city, a list of activities is available at www.northglenn.org/volunteer. You can also contact Jenni Murphy at 303.450.8904 or jmurphy@northglenn.org.

Northglenn Joins Climate Action Coalition of State Communities

City Council voted unanimously on Dec. 10 to join Colorado Communities for Climate Action (CC4CA), a coalition of local governments pushing for strong state-wide climate policy in Colorado.

City Council also unanimously adopted a resolution appointing Council Member Jenny Willford to represent Northglenn on CC4CA's Steering Committee.

"It can be tough as a small city to effectively push for strong state policies," said Willford. "Becoming part of this coalition means Northglenn will have a seat at the table on state-wide climate policy and we can work together with a group of other communities to make sure all of our voices are heard at the Capitol."

CC4CA most recently helped secure strong emissions standards for passenger vehicles in Colorado, and is gearing up for an active legislative session that will likely include bills on energy efficiency, renewable energy, energy storage and reducing carbon pollution.

"We are working hard in Northglenn to become more sustainable," said Mayor

Carol Dodge. "We want to do our part to protect our community from the impacts of climate change. But we can't achieve our own goals without strong state policies, and this coalition gives us a way to make that happen."

The coalition's 22 members span across the Front Range and western Colorado, suburbs and resort towns, municipalities and counties. The members collectively represent more than one-eighth of Colorado's population.

MEMBERS SOUGHT FOR SUSTAINABILITY GROUP

The city is looking for community members or business owners in Northglenn to join the Sustainability Advisory Group.

The sustainability program focuses on social, economic and environmental issues by setting goals and tracking citywide initiatives. In 2019, the priority areas for the group will be recycling and neighborhood engagement.

The group meets on a quarterly basis. To learn more, please contact Becky Smith at 303.450.8741 or bsmith@northglenn.org or visit www.northglenn.org/sustainability.

2019 BUDGET

At the Oct. 22 meeting, City Council approved the 2019 Budget, which includes expenditures of $66,864,869. Here is how they break down by department:

New Zoning Code, Map

As part of New Code Northglenn, the city is rewriting its 40+ year old development regulations into a new Unified Development Ordinance (UDO).

The UDO includes updated names and designations for all zoning districts and will require the city's zoning map to be updated.

These new districts will conform as closely as possible to the current zone district and character of the area. To learn more about the zone district proposed for your property, please go to www.northglenn.org/zoningmap.

The Planning Commission will be meeting Jan. 15 to provide a recommendation to City Council ahead of final adoption. The tentative date for the new zoning map and UDO to be adopted is at the Feb. 11 council meeting.

Go to www.northglenn.org/newcode and /zoningmap for more details.

Officer Tim Kuenning is prepped for the razor at Floyd's Barbershop in Northglenn after participating in No Shave November. Many officers stopped shaving for the month to raise money for the American Cancer Society.

They finished with $15,805, topping last year by more than $5,000! That came with very generous help from the Northglenn Elks, Westminster Elks and Colorado Elks Association, who contributed almost 30 percent of the total.

Thanks to the officers for growing out their whiskers and all the individuals and businesses who contributed!

INSIDE THE UNDERGROUND

In January, the city will debut a new episode of Inside Northglenn discussing the city's water system and Northglenn Underground.

Northglenn Underground is a project that will replace the pump and pipe that directs most of the city's wastewater up to the Wastewater Treatment Plant. Design is set for this year, with construction to follow in 2020.

Stay tuned to the city's social media channels, YouTube station and NGTV Channel 8 to catch the show!

Police, Court Now in Justice Center

The Police Department and Municipal Court have moved out of City Hall and are now operating out of the Northglenn Justice Center.

This new facility is a few blocks south of City Hall, at 50 W. Community Center Drive. That's just west of Interstate 25.

For more information, go to www.northglenn.org/justicecenter.

SAVE-A-LOT ONLINE SURVEY

In late October, a meeting was held for residents to learn more about the Save-a-Lot grocery store coming to 104th Avenue and Huron Street. It also helped Save-a-Lot start to customize the store to meet the needs of this community.

The store is asking residents to fill out an electronic survey, which contains questions about your shopping habits and preferences, along with some personal information. This survey builds on what was learned, and they want to get your feedback. Please go to www.northglenn.org/savealot to fill it out.

Company Wins National Award for City Project

► IECRM's Weifield Group Worked on Wastewater Treatment Plant

A member of Northglenn-based Independent Electrical Contractors Rocky Mountain (IECRM) returned from the National Independent Electrical Contractors Convention in September with a National Project Excellence Award for work on the city's Wastewater Treatment Plant.

Weifield Group was contracted in 2016 to complete a major upgrade to the wastewater plant in Weld County. The aging facility treats an average of 3.2 million gallons of wastewater each day, and infrastructure updates were needed for Northglenn to offer the best wastewater service possible to its residents at the lowest possible cost.

Weifield's "Headworks and Clarifier Project" for the city included:

- Construction of a new headworks facility for debris removal and odor control

- New electrical system
- New flowmeters and pressure instrumentation
- New fiber optic communication
- Construction of a 3,000-square-foot administration building with office space and a laboratory

The project was completed on time and under budget in 2017.

"Winning an IEC National Award is a distinguished honor," said Marilyn Stansbury, IECRM CEO. "These accomplishments set the bar for industry best practices and contribute to the overall advancement of the independent electrical industry. We couldn't be more proud."

In addition to their member's project award, IECRM won 12 other awards ranging from chapter of the year to honors for membership growth, safety, apprentices, instructors and rising stars.

FIN-TASTIC

► City Offering Mermaid Fitness Class at Rec Center

Mermaid fitness class instructor Kristina swims with the monofin that class participants will use.

Sometimes working out requires special equipment.

Like fins.

The city is launching a new mermaid fitness class starting Jan. 8. It runs Tuesday and Thursday from 6:15 to 6:55 p.m. at the Northglenn Recreation Center, 11801 Community Center Drive. The cost is the drop-in rate.

Participants receive monofins, which are like regular swimming fins – except both feet go into a single large fin. Thus, when you swim with them on, your movement is like a mermaid.

The instructor, Kristina, has used the gear for 10 years. “I’m a mermaid at heart,” she said.

Kristina said for some it takes a little while to get used to a new swimming motion, but these classes are designed for mer-beginners and mer-pros.

After swimming for a little while, Kristina will put you through exercises. The warm water provides a natural resistance, but the class is easy on the joints. By the end of each session, you’ll have a good, full-body workout. You’ll especially feel it in the core, but also the legs and arms.

Just bring a swimsuit and towel to participate. The class is limited to 10 people, ages 16 and over. You must be comfortable swimming in the deep end of the pool and having your face underwater.

Call 303.450.8800 or stop by the front desk of the rec center for more information.

"Wings of Freedom" Soars as People's Choice Award Winner

► Artist Lived in Dictatorship, Survived Time as Refugee and Political Prisoner

The Northglenn Arts and Humanities Foundation (NAHF) announces New Mexico artist Dimitry Domani is the recipient of the 2018/2019 People's Choice Award for his bronze and steel sculpture "Wings of Freedom".

The award is part of the city's Art on Parade program, which features on-loan, outdoor sculpture at E.B. Rains Jr. Memorial Park for one year. The public votes for their favorite, and NAHF works toward buying the piece for permanent display in the city. NAHF has already secured funding from the Scientific and Cultural Facilities District.

Domani was born in Romania and grew up in a communist dictatorship. His father and brother suffered 11 years of imprisonment under the Ceausescu regime. Displaying natural artistic skill and work ethic, Domani won admission to the highly competitive art school of Timisoara. After finishing his draft term in the Romanian Army in 1978, he began his journey toward the U.S.

"Wings of Freedom" is a bronze/steel cast of an eagle in flight that celebrates life and captures the beauty of humanity.

To the artist, bronze is the perfect expression of permanence and strength of spirit. Its resiliency reflects Domani's life story, his work and his journey.

"My desire is to translate my art into a statement both humanistic and representational into human values and touch upon our personal and spiritual conditions."

Artist Dimitry Domani

On the Web: Go to www.domanicontemporary.com

He spent a year as a political prisoner in Yugoslavia and two years in a refugee camp in Vienna. He interviewed many times at its American Embassy before finally obtaining a visa to come to the U.S. in 1981. Over the next few years, he gained experience and confidence in art foundries in Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. After moving to Santa Fe in 1988, Domani started a studio and bronze finishing business. He has spent his time ever since creating his art and doing foundry work for other sculptors.

The piece will remain at the park through May, then six new sculptures will be installed. The permanent location for "Wings of Freedom" will be announced in 2019.

For more information about Art on Parade or NAHF, call Michael Stricker at 303.450.8727.
